THE NEED OF WISCONSIN DEMOCRATS.

The Wisconsin democrats are in want. They are without organization and without a leader. They have been kicked about so unceremoniously for so many years in Wisconsin that they begin to feel the need of some one who can give them some good advice in state campaigns and keep them out of the way of breakers. The La Crosse Republican and Leader prints this editorial note bearing on the subject: "Mr. Usher is his best to view with pleasant indifference the efforts of Wisconsin democrats to find an intelligent leader. His admiring partner of the Milwaukee Journal, with characteristic presumption assumed to fill the void and name the gentlemen who should lead where Usher and Nieman follow, and was squealed, as usual, at the opening chapter."

The squealing was done by the Hon. Fred W. Horn, of the Oshkosh News, member of the last assembly and at one time speaker of that body. Mr. Horn is one of the most prominent democrats in Wisconsin, and has done the party much service. It was Mr. Horn who set upon Mr. Winans two years ago for governor—and he was set upon with vigor and effectiveness. Mr. Horn now turns his attention to the proposed leadership of the Milwaukee Journal, and deals with the subject in this fashion:

The democrats who proposed Colonel Vilas for governor must have meant it in a Pickwickian sense. The gallant colonel has done harm enough to the democratic party without giving him another chance. But, if he is nominated we propose Bragg for lieutenant governor, Usher for secretary of state, Colonel Knight for treasurer, A. K. Delaney for attorney general, and so on for the balance of the ticket. Let them run by all means, they have run the democratic party down; it will now be to order for them to run it up again. This will soon be more available timber for the balance of the ticket after the return of mugwump Anderson from Denmark, and the other other Anderson from Montreal. Blaine is rather slow about giving them their passports.

This cannot be very pleasant reading for the democrats of Wisconsin. It contains too much truth to be pleasant, but, however, it rightly pondered, will do the Wisconsin democracy good service. There is an excellent chance for them to profit by the blundering experience of the past. But whether they will do it or not, is quite uncertain. Colonel Vilas is a very poor leader. His four years in Washington did not strengthen his influence. His own city, county and state went back on him. While trying to build for himself and Mr. Cleveland, he reversed the result, and smashed things; and if he should attempt to run for governor, he would simply do what Mr. Horn suggests, do the democracy still more harm.

FIGHTING ON THE SANK GROUND.

The Charleston News and Courier keeps up its courage as will be seen from the following paragraph:

There is nothing in a review of the existing political situation to induce the democracy to abandon the platform of principles and the sense on which it made its fight in 1888. The contest in 1892 should be fought on the same platform and the same issues, and will be successful, we believe, if it shall be made even as earnestly and aggressively as before. It is time to organize for the campaign that has already begun, and the first step is to reorganize the national democratic committee and its executive committee, by the election of a chairman who represents the policy of the party, as that policy is declared in the democratic platform of 1888.

There is no doubt that the democratic campaign will be fought on the old ground of '88, but possibly it may straddle as it did in '84. There is a certain wing of the democratic party that will always control party action in national conventions. It believes in free trade and will manage to place on the committee of resolutions in 1892 just such men as will vote for a free trade plank, and the convention will be forced to adopt it whether all the members like it or not.

But one of the strangest things in politics is that a paper like the Charleston News and Courier will advocate free trade. All the glory the south has to-day as concerns its material progress comes directly from the principles of protection. By it the south has been enabled to develop mines, establish furnaces, build factories, erect workshops where under free trade such a thing was never thought of. If the south is prosperous to-day it is not because the southern people have been wide awake to their interests, but because northern capital, under the influence of protection, has very largely done the work. It is not difficult to guess that if the national democratic convention should decide to fight the campaign of '92 on the platform of '88 the result will be another defeat for the democracy.

"The first industrial exposition at Paris opened May 5th, 1889, and closed November 15 the same year. It was during this exhibition that Queen Victoria and Prince Albert visited Paris (the first English sovereign to visit that city since 1422) and Napoleon III. was strengthened by the prestige given his policy by the exhibition. The second exposition was opened April, 1887, and closed November 3. This exposition was visited by the Prince of Wales, the kings of Greece, Belgium, Prussia, and Sweden the Emperor of Austria, the Czar of Russia, the Sultan of Turkey, and the Viceroy of Egypt. All of these were royally entertained, and the exposition left Napoleon the most influential sovereign in Europe.

The third International exposition was opened May 1, 1889, when 111,955 persons visited the exposition grounds on the first day. It closed Nov. 10. The total admissions during the season were 16,032,725, a daily average of 82,000. The gross receipts of the exposition of 1887 were 9,830,369 francs and the gross receipts of the exposition of 1889 were 12,633,746 francs.

"The Fourth International exposition of Paris opened Monday, and it is the purpose of the government and the people to make it the greatest of the series."

The white man's party in the south advise the adoption of a new plank by the next national republican convention, to wit:

Resolved, That white men do the voting and hold the office. That black men do the work without pay.—Washington Post.

The resolution is in keeping with the spirit of the democratic, or the white man's party. The evidence lately received from southern sources give one some idea as to how the white man wants to do the voting in the south. Only a short time ago a company of negroes at Lafayette, Louisiana, were on their way to the polls, and there came from the "white man's party," curses and threats of murder, and the sheriff who was conducting them, was informed that they would not be allowed to vote for municipal officers. They did not care to be shot down, they had no means of defense, and so they dispersed. The election was postponed, the facts reported to the governor, and at last accounts a number of the desperadoes had been arrested.

The papers have been speculating upon the probable outcome of the Wisconsin village election, for a week past. The struggle equaled the late Chicago election in interest, but the worst is now over. The democrats swept the village by over 300 majority. The successful candidate for president being Col. H. M. Enos, democrat. As he was always supposed to be a republican, the victory looks a little peculiar, but we submit to the inevitable. How would Enos do for a state leader?—Daily Recorder.

The Recorder is evidently in the dark as to Colonel H. M. Enos. He is a democrat of long standing, and no one who knows him ever supposed he was a republican. So on that score, there is no squishiness about the victory being thoroughly democratic. The Recorder must not confound Colonel H. M. Enos with ex-Postmaster Eliza Enos, for their politics is as far apart as democracy is from republicanism.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, which began at Topeka, Kansas, on the 8th, resolutions were passed transferring the president's office from Boston to Chicago. President Strong expresses himself as highly pleased with the prospects for the system and his deep gratification at the pleasure which has already been expressed at his prospective removal to the west. Mr. Strong thinks the Atchison system is now one of the strongest companies financially in the United States, made so by the harmony which exists among the 13,000 stockholders and the prospects of a revival of the railroad property in the west.

The Boston Journal makes this cruel fling at the democratic papers: "The democratic papers, which are howling loudest because General Harrison's brother has been made a marshal down in Tennessee are the papers which two or three short years ago were very much or very much delighted when 'Cousin Ben' got that rich plum, the consulship at Sheffield." The democratic papers have very short memories. They don't remember a thing that Cleveland did which was undemocratic.

Professor Swing is in a quandary in regard to Wagner's music. He wants to know how long he will have to cultivate the spirit of the master before he will possess the power to believe that a dragon, spitting out steam and flame, is a part of the music. The professor is in the same condition of mind touching Wagner as hundreds of others.

M. de Beaupre will try again. PARIS, May 10.—The police tribunal has decided that it had no jurisdiction in the prosecutions brought by M. Beaupre de Beaupre, publisher general, against certain Paris newspapers, except the cases of L'Intransigent and the Press, whose attacks were directed against him as a citizen. In regard to the criticisms reflecting on his administration of public affairs the tribunal holds that they must be submitted to a jury. M. de Beaupre has entered an appeal against this decision.

Sharp Nominated as Tate's Successor. LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 10.—A Democratic State convention met here to nominate a candidate for State treasurer. The election opened in August. Among the notable men present were Senator Blackburn, Congressman McCrory, Stone, Caruth, and Montgomery, and Congressman-elect T. H. Paynter. State Treasurer Stephen G. Sharp, who was appointed to succeed the fugitive Tate, was nominated without opposition.

Two New York Prisoners Break Jail. JAMESTOWN, N. Y., May 10.—Charles Burke, James Scannon and Charles Waters escaped from the Mayville jail early yesterday morning by using a piece of timber as a battering-ram. Sheriff Case discovered their flight a few minutes later and succeeded in capturing Scannon. The other two escaped. The prisoners were being tried on the charge of burglarizing a large jewelry store at Brocton.

Advice to Mothers. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, cures the mother, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. 25c a bottle.

For a disordered liver try Beecham's Pill. All who are suffering from the errors and excesses of youth, nervous weakness, early loss of manhood, etc., will find a certain cure in Beecham's Pill. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to Beecham's Pills, Station D, New York City.

WAS IT INCENDIARIES?

FIREBUGS BELIEVED TO HAVE BURNED MORELAND.

Ten Men Killed in a Pennsylvania Mine Accident—A Village Devastated—Various Casualties.

CHICAGO, May 10.—The people of Moreland are in a frenzy of excitement. Some malicious person set a house on fire in the devastated village this morning, and had been found he would have paid the penalty with his life, so maddened were the villagers.

Shortly before 9 o'clock everybody who was viewing the ruins and moving his furniture was startled on seeing flames burst from a two-story cottage one block north of the Northwestern depot, on Ohio street, between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth streets.

The large force of men working at the shops in the vicinity were in the town, and soon the entire population was at the fire. The excited men swooped down on the little frame cottage and actually tore it to pieces in their efforts to extinguish the flames.

Water was carried from the few cisterns in the place and the flames were soon extinguished, but the house presented a sorry sight. The men in their excitement had torn out the window sashes, pulled off the shingles from the roof, and ripped off the siding. No less than 200 men and boys, fearing that they could not get enough water to quench the flames, had literally torn the building to pieces.

There was no stove in the place where the flames broke out, no smoldering ruins near the building, and the villagers say that they are certain that the fire was the work of an incendiary, and fear that an organized gang of firebugs are in the town. They go so far as to say that they believe the conflagration yesterday was of incendiary origin.

The frame house that was set on fire this morning was owned by John Nelson, a laborer. The cottage was a new one, so situated as to cause another disastrous conflagration had the fire got any headway. The sounder who fired the building could not have selected a better locality. On either side of Nelson's home were frame buildings, and directly across the street was a cluster of frame dwellings. A rather strong wind was blowing from the southwest, and if the little frame cottage had been allowed to burn ten minutes longer the flames would have leaped over the street and the entire portion of the town north of the railroad track would have been swept by the flames.

TEN MEN KILLED.
Horrible Accident in a Colliery Near Middleport, Pa.
MIDDLEPORT, Pa., May 10.—At Kaska William colliery, near Middleport, Pa., this evening, the cage containing ten miners was ascending the shaft and had reached a height of about sixteen feet from the bottom, when an explosion occurred, blowing over the top of the shaft by two Hungarian laborers. The car struck the ascending cage with awful momentum, shattering it to splinters and instantly killing every one of its occupants. The names of the victims are: MICHAEL BOYLE, assistant inside foreman; JOHN MOORE; HUGH CARLIN; PATRICK McDONALD; GEORGE BENDEL; JOHN DUTTOYICH; FRANK STATA; ALBERT DWYER; EDWARD KURTZ; STEPHEN MATSON.

The cage with the victims was hoisted into the "sump," a hole at the bottom of the shaft where the water from the workings accumulates, and the mangled bodies were not recovered for some time.

Burning of a New York Village.
SCHUB OAK, N. Y., May 10.—A fire early this morning destroyed the greater part of this village. Every business house in the place was burned, as well as the Methodist church. The loss will be about $40,000.

THE OBITUARY RECORD.

Gen. Harney, the Oldest Officer of the United States Army—Other Deaths.
OKLAHOMA, May 10.—Gen. William Harney, the oldest officer of the United States army, died here Thursday. Gen. Harney was born in 1800. In 1818 he was given his first military appointment by President Monroe as a Lieutenant in the First regiment of infantry, stationed in Louisiana, and his first expedition was an exciting one against the famous Lafitte. Capt. Harney's conspicuous services were in the Black Hawk war, after which he took a leave of absence and went to St. Louis. When the Mexican war broke out he placed in command of the Texas frontier, where he was separated from his command. During the period preceding the civil war he was at Washington and was frequently in conference with President Buchanan. When the war began he was stationed at St. Louis. His services ended in 1863, when he was retired. In 1885 he was brevetted Major-General for long and faithful service.

WILLIAM D. O'CONNOR, assistant general superintendent of the life-saving service, died in Washington, after a long illness, from paralysis.

The death is reported in New York of Henri Mathieu, a veteran who was present at the battle of Waterloo.

SAMUEL W. PEARCE, a member of the Providence R. I. board of trade, died of peritonitis. At the time President Lincoln was assassinated Mr. Pearce and his sister were en route from Providence to Newburgh, N. C. It chanced that they bore a striking resemblance to Booth and Mrs. Surratt and they were arrested and detained until they proved their identity.

MR. HORWITZ SWINDLED.
Bunko Men Get in Their Work on a Prominent Young Baltimorean.
BALTIMORE, Md., May 10.—S. G. Horwitz, a prominent society man and son of Benjamin Horwitz, a distinguished lawyer and grandson of the late Dr. Gross of Philadelphia, was enticed into a bunko-room last night and swindled out of a large sum of money.

The men, who were engaged in the swindle, then made a break for the street. Horwitz followed, and succeeded in having one of the men, who gave him name as William W. Taylor, arrested. The affair created much excitement in social circles, and an effort was made to induce Horwitz to withdraw the charges to avoid publicity. A move was also made to have the case suppressed in the papers.

Two Presidential Appointments.
WASHINGTON, May 10.—Secretary Noble today appointed Irving G. Caldwell to Ohio, and Richard DeLambert of Kansas, special agents of the land office, at a salary of $1,500 each per annum.

THE PLUMMERVILLE OUTRAGE.

Several Arrests for the Ballot-Box Theft—The Mystery Cleared Up.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 10.—It is believed that the mystery surrounding the theft of the Plummerville ballot-box on the night of Nov. 6 is now cleared up. Two weeks ago last Sunday a young man named Warren Taylor was arrested on a charge of interfering with election officers at Plummerville. Taylor's arrest and was before the grand jury and there gave evidence which has led to clearing up the mystery. He testified that he was in a crowd of young men who went from Morrilton, the county seat, to Plummerville at night, as they understood it, to preserve peace as trouble was expected. When the crowd arrived at Plummerville they were halted on the outskirts and five men rode into the town. Presently they returned and reported "everything quiet" and the crowd returned. On the way to Morrilton the five men gave it out that the Plummerville ballot-box was in the crowd. The box was taken into Wells' store at Morrilton and burned. This confession of Taylor's was the means of having a large number of witnesses from Conway county summoned before the grand jury.

Yesterday, just before the grand jury adjourned, two indictments were returned, and to-day it proved that these were indictments for the Plummerville ballot box theft. The men indicted are O. T. Wentz, Walter F. Wells, and Charles Ward, charged with unlawfully seizing and carrying away the ballot box and poll books, and the following persons charged with conspiracy in the stealing of the box: Charles C. Reid, Ben T. White, Thomas C. Henry, William Palmer, Warren Taylor, Ferdinand Lee Gunter, William L. Woods, John C. Heard and Thad B. Wells.

Reid is the young lawyer of Morrilton who has just been released after conviction in the federal court on the charge of interfering with election judges. Young Wells is the son of one of the most prominent merchants of Morrilton. Henry is a deputy sheriff of Conway county under Sheriff Shelby.

WANTS TO BE KING.

Admiral Kimberly Having Trouble with One of His Subjects.

AKLUND, New Zealand, May 10.—News has been received from the Samoan islands that Admiral Kimberly has issued a manifesto addressed to the natives, urging them to conclude peace. Tanager rejected the Admiral's advice, and refused to agree to a peace unless he is recognized as King. The steamer Boston, which was dispatched to Samoa by the British government and placed at the disposal of the American naval officers, has arrived at Apia and will take off the shipwrecked sailors of the steamer Admiral Kimberly will remain with eighty men. Herr Stuel, the newly-appointed German consul, has arrived at Apia and relieved Dr. Knappe, who has gone to Sydney. The British flag has been hoisted over the Savarua islands in the South Pacific.

Cruel Evictions to Continue.

DUBLIN, May 10.—Evictions near Pall Mall will be resumed next week. Great indignation is felt over the threat of the landlord to burn houses to prevent re-occupation by evicted tenants. One woman, 80 years old, is reported to have died from the shock of her removal from her hut on the Ophelt estate.

The persons arrested during the riot at Gweedore, in which Inspector Martin was killed, have been indicted for complicity in the murder.

Testing the Baltimore's Ballers. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 10.—A clock trial was given the starboard engine of the United States cruiser Baltimore yesterday. A speed of over fifty revolutions a minute was maintained from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. on a steam pressure of ninety-five pounds. The engine will be operated to-day, and to-morrow the port engine will be worked. Only two of the ballers were in use yesterday, and the test is regarded as satisfactory in every detail.
